

UANews

NEWS RELEASE

July 7, 2015

University of Arizona Removes Recognition of Delta Tau Delta

TUCSON, Arizona — University of Arizona officials have withdrawn university recognition of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity chapter following the chapter's suspension by its national office.

The national office announced Monday that it was suspending the chapter for repeated violations of the fraternity's risk management policies, "poor academic performance among the new members and failure to make satisfactory progress during the spring 2015 semester."

The chapter was under university probation until December 2015. University policy requires a fraternity to be affiliated with a national organization to qualify for university recognition.

The national office said in its announcement that it will work with the UA "and the fraternity's alumni network to prepare for a return when appropriate."

The UA maintains an online listing of Greek organizations under judicial review to help students and families evaluate fraternities and sororities. It can be found at <http://greek.arizona.edu/standards/chapter-conduct-and-judicial> and is updated each semester.

###

Media contact: Chris Sigurdson UA University Relations 520-

626-5620 sig@email.arizona.edu

The University of Arizona, the state's super land-grant university with two medical schools, produces graduates who are real-world ready, through its 100% engagement initiative. Recognized as a global leader for the employability of its graduates, UA is also a leader in research, bringing more than $580 million in research investment each year, ranking 19 among all public universities. UA is advancing the frontiers of interdisciplinary scholarship and entrepreneurial partnerships, and is a member of the Association of American of Universities, the 62 leading public and private research universities. It benefits the state with an estimated economic impact of $8.3 billion annually.